BROKE MR. NICHOLS'S RIBS.

Collision Between Carriages Possibly

Due to Reckless Driving. Thomas Nichols, proprietor of the hat factory at Franklin, N. J., is reported in a critical condition at the home to be in a critical condition at the home of his son, on Nutley Terrace. The old gentleman has several ribs fractured and is otherwise bruised.

While returning to his home Sunday evening from a drive with his wife, his carriage was run into by a buggy, in which were Joseph Scaries and Charles Klerstell.

Eath carriages were smashed and the Both carriages were smassed and the occupants thrown into the road. All excaped unburt except Mr. Nichols. As the road is wide enough to permit of both vehicles passing abreas; with room to spare, it is supposed that reckless driving is mainly responsible for the accident.

fection in the ranks of honest voters has caused an increased demand for floaters.

It will perhaps be interesting for the uninitiated to know how the purchasers of votes know whether the goods they bargain for were delivered, and with a secret ballot, too.

But nothing is easier. The Loater is given a paster ballot to paste over the name of a candidate for delegate to the Constitutional Convention or some other candidate who has a walkover, and if the name on the paster is not called off instead of the name of the regular candidate when the inspectors make up the tally sheet Mr. Floater gets no money. That is how it is done.

Kramer and Putter were identified at Police Headquarters yesterday by E. A. Whitney and A. E. Wilson, two of the Parkhurst agents. To-day all three were "stood up" in a line of sixteen Essex Market prisoners, against the wall in the corridor of that gloomy prison this morning and Agent Lemmon went along the line, and after carefully scruainizing every face he was able to pick out Sugan and Putter as being two of the men in the mob that followed the agents the day they appeared in police court against the women kepers of two alleged disorderly houses they had raided, and attacked them in the Bowery as they were chang-yesterday on the failure to identify them.

If the prisoners are convicted it will be of riot or felony.

Capt. Devery and his men and a number of Central Office detectives have been unusually active this morning. A number of men have visited Headquarters in the escort of officers and have gone away again. Supt.
